Find Scholarly Articles for Your Literature Review or Research Paper
Scholarly or peer-reviewed articles are written by experts in academic or professional fields.

Authors: Scholars in their field of expertise and are often associated with research institutions, such as universities, colleges, and government agencies.

Peer-reviewed: Articles are vetted for accuracy, currency and to ensure the studies are new research in the field.

References List: Articles always include a list of references which can lead you to additional relevant scholarly articles.
Start at the JWU Library homepage: pvd.library.jwu.edu. Select ARTICLES in the WorldCat search box. Type your keyword or phrase in the search box.
Select “Scholarly (Peer Reviewed) Journals” and change the publication date for more current articles.
Return to the library homepage, pvd.library.jwu.edu, to find more scholarly articles. Select databases from the Quick Links list.
Databases that contain scholarly journals include Sage Journals Online, Emerald, Jstor, and Science (AAAS). Scroll down the A-Z list to find the database you need.
